The FIDM Museum & Galleries space is 10,000 square feet. Annually, the Museum plays host to the movie industry by presenting its highly anticipated exhibition, The Art of Motion Picture Costume Design. This exhibition salutes the work of motion picture costume designers from major films, including Academy Award winning and nominated designs.

Past diverse exhibitions have included costumes from the opera, French Fashions, Marimekko and a salute to the 100th Anniversary of The Gamble House. The Museum presented High Style: Betsy Bloomingdale and the Haute Couture in 2009, featuring the FIDM Museum's permanent collection donated by Mrs. Bloomingdale. The museum also pays tribute each year to Emmy nominated costume designers in the Art of Television Costume Design exhibition. At the entrance to the galleries is the popular Museum Shop, with an online store.
